between 1953 and 1978 the italian architect carlo scarpa produced an incredibly varied range of works that challenge our notions of what modern architecture might be foremost in that work was the need to reconcile a wholehearted embrace of the new with the longstanding traditions of local craft and of universal practice to create an architecture that would clearly express its own machine driven times without abandoning the psychic and sensual forces of place materiality and memory carlo scarpa architect intervening with history illustrates through abundant reproductions of scarpa's drawings the ways the architect created a dialogue with light space and architecture within the historic fabric of italian cities presenting these projects as they exist today the patient eye of contemporary photographer guido guidi deepens our understanding of this timely approach to architectural dialogue this book engages and clarifies concepts crucial to hans georg gadamer's philosophical hermeneutics including the concepts of effective history tradition dialogue and language festivals of interpretation exhibits the universal scope of hermeneutics the authors respond to three questions often raised about gadamer's philosophical hermeneutics part one takes up the question of how gadamer understands truth it discusses how hermeneutical truth relates to methods how truth may be thought to be historically conditioned without at the same time being relative and how a truthful interpretation can produce a new understanding while simultaneously remaining faithful to the text part two brings out the political legal and social relevance of gadamer's philosophical hermeneutics by focusing on the role interpretation plays in times of political crisis of disputes in constitutional law of changing ideas of societal needs such as health care and of increased technological control of public opinion the last question often asked about gadamer s work concerns its relation to poetry part three treats the challenge posed to philosophy by poetry in general and particularly by the poetry of paul celan as well as questions raised recently by jacques derrida about different ways of thinking about interpretation and text the purpose of the book is to develop a generative theory of shape that has two properties regarded as fundamental to intelligence maximizing transfer of structure and maximizing recoverability of the generative operations these two properties are particularly important in the representation of complex shape which is the main concern of the book the primary goal of the theory is the conversion of complexity into understandability for this purpose a mathematical theory is presented of how understandability is created in a structure this is achieved by developing a group theoretic approach to formalizing transfer and recoverability to handle complex shape a new class of groups is developed called unfolding groups these unfold structure from a maximally collapsed version of itself a principal aspect of the theory is that it develops a group theoretic formalization of major object oriented concepts such as inheritance the result is a mathematical language that brings interoperability into the very foundations of geometry the book gives extensive applications of the theory to cad cam human and machine vision robotics software engineering and physics in cad lengthy chapters are presented on mechanical and architectural design for example using the theory of unfolding groups the book works in detail through the main stages of mechanical cad cam part design assembly and machining and within part design an extensive algebraic analysis is given of sketching alignment dimensioning resolution editing sweeping feature addition and intent management in robotics several levels of analysis are developed for manipulator structure and kinematics in software a new theory is given of the principal factors such as text and class structure object creation and modification as well as inheritance and hierarchy prediction in physics a new theory is given of the conservation laws and motion decomposition theorems in classical and quantum mechanics transaction management support for cooperative application is a comprehensive report on a successful international project called transcoop carried out from 1994 to 1997 by a group of european scientists but the book is also much more than that namely an ambitious attempt to integrate computer supported cooperative work cscw workflow management systems wfms and transaction processing tp technologies the very term em cooperative transactions is in itself contradictory cooperation technologies such as cscw aim at providing a framework for information exchange between cooperating human participants in contrast traditional transaction technologies allow concurrent users to operate on shared data while providing them with the illusion of complete isolation from each other to overcome this contradiction the transcoop researchers had to come up with a new and original notion of correctness of concurrent executions based on controlled exchange of information between concurrent users merging histories in accordance with prespecified commutativity rules among concurrent operations provides transactional guarantees to activities such as cooperative designing which until now had to be carried out sequentially as an interesting consequence it also provides a basis for management of consistency between disconnected or mobile users who operate independently and yet must occasionally reconcile their work with each other
